

Abstract

A method for producing compounds which are oxidized in an alpha position by electrochemical reaction with alcohol in the presence of an auxiliary electrolyte and catalytic amounts of a metal salt.